St. Charles Family Care in La Pine

St. Charles Foundation’s Capital Campaign to help build St. Charles Family Care in La Pine launched in 2016. To date the campaign has raised $930,000 from the community toward its $1.5 million goal.

St. Charles Family Care will bring expanded health care access to the region that includes La Pine, Sunriver, Gilchrist, Crescent, Chemult, Christmas Valley, Fort Rock, Silver Lake and other nearby underserved communities. Services will include expanded primary/family care, immediate care, radiology/imaging, lab services and space for specialty care.
Letter from the Director

June 2017

Dear Friends and Colleagues,

Here at St. Charles, we work daily to fulfill our promise of creating America’s healthiest community, together. While we all want to have access to the newest and most effective health care programs and equipment, it is very difficult for a community hospital to afford this. Philanthropy has become an essential part of maintaining excellence at St. Charles Health System. Our work isn’t just about growing bigger. The work is also about continually improving and guiding the community down a path to better health. The pace of change at St. Charles is intense, but slowing down or turning back is not an option — there is still much to do.

We have so much to be proud of as we change to meet the needs of our growing community. We receive hundreds of individual contributions each year — some representing considerable sacrifice — from people committed to ensuring exemplary health care in Central Oregon. We accept these gifts with deep appreciation and with a commitment to be excellent stewards of what you have entrusted to us.

Here at St. Charles, our vision is clear and our reach is high because our community deserves it. Whatever hopes and dreams patients and their families hold, our caregivers are there to help give them the best chance to reach their dreams. On behalf of each patient — each life we save, sustain or improve — thank you.

Lisa Dobey
Executive Director

For the baby born prematurely in Christmas Valley. For the child of working parents with Type 1 Diabetes in need of constant monitoring and care. For the parents of a hospitalized 10-year-old stroke victim. For these children and their families, access to health care is a matter of life and death. Access to exceptional care right here at home is a godsend.

St. Charles Foundation seeks to bolster programs for our region’s children wherever possible. Never has that been more of a focus than in 2016. As a community, we are fortunate to have access to quality care from dedicated staff at the St. Charles neonatal intensive care unit (NICU) and pediatrics departments throughout our hospitals and clinics. But with funding from our donors, we achieved even more, providing state-of-the-art equipment and enhanced patient services that a nonprofit health system would simply be otherwise unable to afford.

“When we hear about something we can do to directly impact the health of children in our community, the decision is easy,” said Lisa Dobey, St. Charles Foundation executive director. “If we can, we will.”

Just last year, $225,000 in donations to St. Charles Foundation funded the purchase of a new Isolette, a special incubator used to transport premature and sick babies to the NICU; equipment to improve patient experience like a new i-Stat handheld blood analyzer for the Family Birthing Center in Madras; Carescape bedside monitors for pediatrics in Bend; and recliners for the NICU so parents can bond with their babies in comfort.

The paddle raise at last year’s Saints Gala raised a record $130,000 for the pediatric hospitalist program — a collaboration of St. Charles, Bend Memorial Clinic and Central Oregon Pediatric Associates — giving children in our region access to exceptional, specialty inpatient care at St. Charles.

For Jackson, a funny, cheerful six-year-old born with complex intestinal issues that leave him hospitalized three or four times a year, the pediatric hospitalist program provides a stable medical home where he is at ease. For his mother, Emily, being able to see the same group of doctors each visit who know Jackson’s story and how to treat him has been invaluable.

Funding to improve the health of our children and families is an investment in the future of our community. No money is better spent. Thanks to our donors for helping every child stay a kid at St. Charles.
Each year, St. Charles Foundation awards more than 25 scholarships for caregiver and nursing education, but none is more important than the North Star Scholarship, granted to an exceptional high school senior pursuing education for a career in health care.

The 2016 recipient was one of our community’s most promising young people, Summit High School’s Caitlin Nichols. The $5,000 scholarship was awarded in the name of the 2015 North Star Physician of Year Dr. John Zachem, a St. Charles hospitalist chosen for his long history of dedication to his patients and the health of our community.

“Caitlin embodies all the qualities we look for in awarding this scholarship,” said Dr. Norwyn Newby, St. Charles Foundation board member. “She not only has displayed both academic excellence and a commitment to a career in health care, but she also has an impressive history of community service for someone so young.”

In addition to volunteering for three summers at St. Charles, Caitlin participated in Health Occupations classes, where she shadowed medical personnel in the hospital as they worked with their patients. The program strengthened her resolve to pursue a career in nursing.

“I am drawn to helping professions and love working with people in a caring and compassionate way,” Caitlin said. “I am also very attracted to the sciences, particularly anatomy and physiology, that help us understand the miracle of the human body. Health care is a natural path for me.”

She began her freshman year at the University of Portland’s nursing program in fall 2016.

Caitlin was described by Summit science teacher Jason Colquhoun as someone with a huge heart for others who will have a positive and lasting impact on all she comes in contact with, in college and in life.

That is exactly what the health care field needs and what the North Star scholarship was created to encourage.

“I feel so honored to receive the North Star Scholarship,” said Caitlin. “It inspires me to live up to the trust the Foundation has placed in me to become a skilled and compassionate nurse who will serve others.”

A cancer diagnosis is devastating. Treatment can be overwhelming, lasting months or even years. But what many who have been lucky enough to avoid it do not realize — and those who have gone through it most certainly do — is that cancer pervades every aspect of your life, only part of which is covered by insurance or managed by doctors.

Gary and Kay Craven, donors to St. Charles Foundation’s Cancer Center Capital Campaign, know firsthand from family experience that a cutting-edge, integrated cancer center is crucial, but that living with cancer extends far beyond a treatment room. In 2016, they funded a program to provide housecleaning services for those undergoing cancer treatment.

“One of our younger patients who has used the service told me what a difference it made,” said Alycia Downs, community outreach coordinator, St. Charles cancer services. “She has a young family — a husband and two kids under seven. To be able to come home and focus on them and not housework was a huge stress relief. It also gave her the peace of mind that she was healing in a clean space without the worry of germs or dust irritating her system weakened by treatment.”

To date, $6,000 in vouchers have been used.

Through generous donations from our community, several other programs administered by St. Charles Foundation address such needs.

Sara’s Project, which receives individual donations as well as all of the proceeds from St. Charles Foundation’s annual Heaven Can Wait 5K — $95,000 in 2016 — helps 4,500 people in our region each year through programs and services including one-on-one support and financial assistance for non-medical expenses.

CAN Cancer is a local appeal established by the Martinez family of Wilderness Garbage in cooperation with a group of garbage and disposal companies to provide community assistance to cover living expenses such as fuel, travel and food costs. Donations surpassed $23,000 in 2016.

St. Charles Cancer Center integrative therapies program, funded entirely by donations, provides acupuncture, Reiki, massage and more. Patients received a total of 2,885 treatments in 2016.

“As a community health system, St. Charles depends on donations for these and other programs that impact the lives of so many of our neighbors,” said Tom Schumacher, director, St. Charles cancer services. “We are grateful for each and every one.”

About St. Charles Foundation

St. Charles Foundation is the philanthropic arm of St. Charles Health System. The Foundation secures gifts in support of the health system’s vision: creating America’s healthiest community, together. Philanthropic donations fund programs and capital projects that improve health, prevent disease, enhance quality of life and provide the highest quality care possible for all patients, now and in the future.
